Remarks

As can be seen in Cited Literature 1 through 4, the prior art constitution of the present application is a well-known constitution.

Furthermore, regarding the idea of charging a fee to the information provider is a conventional means in the advertising field, and is thus a technique which would naturally be used in cases where the information, etc. provided by the information provider has the character of advertising. In particular, the constitution of the present application does no more than to employ well-known techniques of advertisement charging such as click-guaranteed advertisement charging.
